▶ Martin at his arraignment

Man pleads not guilty after police chase

BOSTON. A Brighton man who led state police on a chase through Cambridge and then used the Red Line to flee pleaded not guilty to multiple charges Thursday.

Leroy Martin, 34, was arraigned on 10 charges including unlawful possession of a firearm and being an armed career criminal, according to the Suffolk district attorney's office.

Police said they were watching Martin after they received a tip that he planned to illegally sell a loaded .357 gun to a man in the parking lot of the Revere Target on Wednesday afternoon.

When police tried to stop Martin, he fled in a car into Cambridge where a state police trooper fired his gun. No one was injured.

Martin continued to flee and eventually crashed into another car near the Charles/MGH MBTA station. He then got on the Red Line and continued to flee until police caught up with him in Kendall Square.

Martin was ordered held on $100,000 cash bail and to wear a GPS monitoring device. METRO/MN

Train catches fire in North Station

BOSTON. A mechanical failure in the engine of a commuter rail locomotive at North Station ignited a smoky fire and delayed outbound commuter trains Thursday afternoon.

A spokesman for the Massachusetts Bay Commuter Railroad Co. said the Haverhill line train had arrived in Boston about 10 minutes prior and was empty at the time of the fire.

The incident closed three tracks, all which were reportedly reopened in less than an hour. GLOBE

Greig lawyer: Sentence off

BOSTON. Catherine Greig's attorney said he filed an appeal because they are weighing their options to challenge her jail sentence.

Attorney Kevin Reddington said they would not challenge the conviction, but Greig is thinking about challenging the eight-year prison term she was sentenced to on Tuesday, according to the Globe.

Greig pleaded guilty earlier this year to harboring her boyfriend, alleged mob boss James "Whitey" Bulger. METRO

Think the T's crowded now? Just wait a decade

Report predicts surge in T riders ◐ Could cost up to $1B to keep up with rising ridership ◐ Residential, commercial development to blame

Fare increases and service cuts; it's becoming an old story for T riders.

But a report released Thursday shows a new problem looming in the distance — mega overcrowding.

The Urban Land Institute projects that within a decade, the T may see between 100,000 and 367,000 more daily riders, putting particular pressure on the Red, Orange and Green lines as well as commuter rail lines dependent on South Station.

The report's author said those lines are either approaching capacity, at capacity, or will be beyond capacity in the future.

"The commonwealth will have to invest more money in the T, or the crunch is going to get worse," said author Stephanie Pollack, an associate director of the Dukakis Center for Urban & Regional Policy at Northeastern University. "In order to accommodate, they need to update the system with more trains and more cars, and run them with more frequency."

The Green Line in particular, she said, not only has issues with congestion, but has electricity and signal systems that date back to the 1920s.

Pollack predicts it could cost as much as $1 billion to accommodate the T's growing needs.

NICOLAUS CZARNECKI/METRO

▶ The squished are projected to get squishier.

"To meet ridership demand without unacceptable levels of congestion will require both better planning and more investment." ULI REPORT

The higher traffic will be ushered in with the development of roughly 75,000 new residential units expected to pop up around MBTA stations over the next 20 years.

The report also shows that by 2035, about 130,000 new jobs will be located in commercial space near T stations, adding to the soaring ridership.

But as long as the T can come up with the cash, Pollack said, it is good news for the local economy.

"The development community sees stations as exactly the right place to build. The whole point of putting homes and jobs near the T is for people to use transit. If we want to attract that kind of investment by developers, there has to be room on the trains," she said.

MBTA General Manager Jonathan Davis said the report reinforces what T officials have been saying over the last year.

"A long-term financial fix is absolutely critical to stabilizing the MBTA's budget situation and providing the resources necessary to maintain reliable service and satisfy growing demand," Davis said.

Transit authorities have been joined by state and local leaders in the push for long-term solution to the budget troubles facing the transit system.

Hub expensive for travelers

BOSTON. If you're reading this and you live in the city then you should be thankful.

Travel site TripAdvisor recently released its Summer 2012 TripIndex report that ranks Boston as the second most expensive city in the country for travelers.

The site compared common expenses for two travelers like a room for two at a four-star hotel, round-trip taxi fare, dinner for two and cocktails at a five-star hotel bar. Boston's total cost was $450.27.

New York was the most expensive city with a total of $456.50. Las Vegas ranked last with a total of $263.46.

London is the priciest city for American travelers with a cost of about $518. METRO

Thousands hope to channel their inner 5-year-old in Musical Chairs World Championship on Saturday

Bay State residents have become accustomed to hosting various sports championship events in recent years including the World Series and the Stanley Cup finals.

On Saturday, Massachusetts will add another contest to that list — one that is more often played by kindergarteners.

The Musical Chairs World Championship takes place in Amesbury and is expected to draw thousands of competitors seeking to claim the title of world musical chair champion and a $10,000 prize. Organizers are also hoping to break the Guinness World Record for the largest game of musical chairs set by a group of more than 8,000 in Singapore more than 20 years ago.

Fred Smith, who owns the offbeat event managing company SmithFest Events, came up with the idea while trying to think of a fundraiser. He then worked with his team to develop the concept and trademarked the event. He even created the World Musical Chairs Federation, the "international governing body for all major musical chairs competitions."

"The response has been amazing," said Smith by phone as he helped to load up about a thousand chairs for the event. "But one of the things we're lacking is history and actual footage to show people, but we're not doing bad."

Despite that, Smith said he hopes to make the event an annual occurrence. He said he's already received calls from organizations in Michigan, San Francisco and Ireland that hope to sanction musical chair competitions.

Spectators must pay an admission fee. Other activities taking place include a paintball range, bands and stunt bags.

MICHAEL NAUGHTON

▶ A humorous YouTube video promotes the competition.

How to play

The rules, according to the World Musical Chairs Federation:

- Competitors must pay a $35 entry fee.
- Competitors must be 18 years old or older.
- There shall be no use of hands, arms or shoulders.
- Overaggression will not be tolerated and will result in an ejection.
- You must keep pace with the person in front of you.

Obama, Romney have economy swords drawn

President Barack Obama cast his re-election battle with Mitt Romney as a clash between starkly contrasting philosophies and charged that his Republican rival would hollow out the middle class in a high-stakes speech on Thursday that could set the tone for months of intense campaigning.

Standing at a podium that bore the motto "Forward," Obama accused Romney of wanting to resurrect the Republican economic policies that preceded the 2008 crisis that plunged the United States into a recession from which it has not fully recovered.

"We can't afford to jeopardize the future by repeating the mistakes of the past. Not now, not when we've got so much at stake," Obama told a crowd of 1,500 at a community college in the battleground state of Ohio.

On a day when both candidates for the Nov. 6 presidential election spoke in Ohio, Romney struck first in a speech that ended four minutes before Obama took the stage.

"He's been president for three and a half years. And talk is cheap, actions speak very loud. If you want to see the results of his economic policies, look around Ohio, look around the country," Romney said at Seilkop Industries, a Cincinnati manufacturer.

Obama is coming off the roughest stretch of his presidency since last summer's debt-ceiling showdown and his Democratic allies worry that he could lose the election if it is simply a referendum on his efforts to boost the shaky economy. REUTERS

News in brief

Two more witnesses detail abuse by Sandusky

BELLEFONTE, PENNSYLVANIA. Two more men testified in Jerry Sandusky's child sex abuse trial about being molested by the former Penn State assistant football coach, and a university campus detective on Thursday recalled Sandusky saying "I wish I were dead" after being confronted by an alleged victim's mother about showering with her son.

Prosecutors moved toward wrapping up their case in the closely watched trial in Pennsylvania. Judge John Cleland told jurors before breaking for lunch at the Centre County Court in Pennsylvania that prosecutors, who began presenting evidence on Monday, could conclude their case by Thursday afternoon.

The trial is taking place amid a heavy media presence in the small town of Bellefonte, about 10 miles from Penn State's main campus. REUTERS

Allen Stanford gets 110 years in Ponzi fraud

HOUSTON. Allen Stanford, the former Texas billionaire convicted of running a $7 billion Ponzi scheme, was sentenced to 110 years in prison on Thursday.

Stanford was convicted of 13 charges including fraud and conspiracy by a jury in March for using fraudulent certificates of deposit sold by his offshore bank in Antigua to bilk thousands of investors out of their savings.

Bernie Madoff was sentenced to 150 years after pleading guilty to running a Ponzi scheme. REUTERS

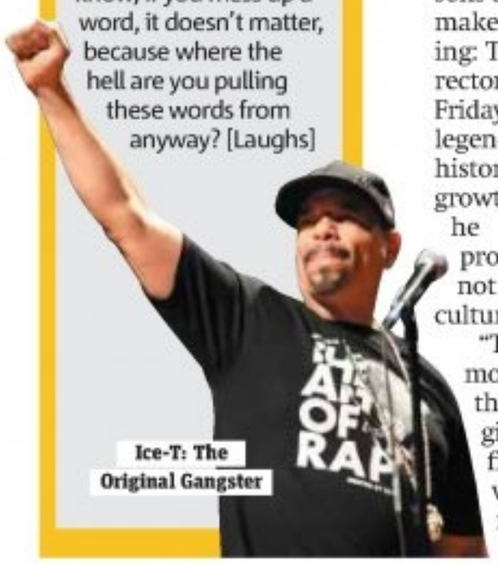
Ice-T and 38 of his favorite MCs provide a living history of hip-hop in his directorial debut, 'Something from Nothing: The Art of Rap'

▶ To hear more with Ice-T, download the June edition of the Metro Monthly Music Podcast for free, available at www.metro.us/mixtape and on iTunes.

Hip-hop is reaching an age where more and more of its most high-profile practitioners never knew a time when it did not exist. That's one of the reasons that Ice-T felt compelled to make "Something from Nothing: The Art of Rap." For his directorial debut, which opens Friday, he rounded up 38 rap legends to document an oral history of the genre's birth and growth. Through this method he unveils the creative process of an art form that is not often enough given the cultural credit it deserves.

"This film isn't about the money, the cars, the jewelry, the girls," he says at the beginning of the movie. "This film is about the craft, what it takes to write a rap, what goes on inside the heads of the masters."



Ice-T: The Original Gangster

It feels like this movie couldn't have been made at any other time. Most of the originators are still alive and vibrant, but they're not so entrenched in the game that they're above being nostalgic.

When you get to the point where hip-hop is old enough that people can look back at it and reflect, it's much better than catching it in the moment, because when you catch an artist in the moment, there's no mistakes. Everything is right, everything is on point, there's no weakness. I think that when you get older you've been through it, you have humility and you can laugh at it. At the end of the movie, you see all of the RIPs we put on there. ... This has been around long enough that we've lost many, many rappers. I wanted to catch this now.

It seems now like we're seeing the emergence of the first MCs to be born into hip-hop, whereas all of the people in the movie saw the beginning of it.

Yeah, and you know there will be a Part Two [to this movie]. I don't know if I'll do it. The next generation will write their legacy down. It wasn't time for me to go out and really start the movie with the new artists. I have to start it where I started, and my trek was that I was an L.A. rapper and I moved to New York and New York kind of put me in the game, and they told me that this requires skills. They also taught me you've got to respect it. They said, "If we're going to let you into hip-hop and we're going to give you the cosign, Ice-T, never turn your back on it, never disrespect this, because this is something that's serious." I try to do this with the film.

Quoted

"If we're going to let you into hip-hop and we're going to give you the cosign, Ice-T, never turn your back on it, never disrespect this, because this is something that's serious."

ICE-T ON THE ETHOS THAT THE NYC HIP-HOP COMMUNITY INSTILLED IN HIM

The film does have a serious and reverential tone, but there are also times when you're laughing at yourself, reminiscing about even the name of your first crew, which I'll have to remind readers was called the Eliminators Pimpin' Association.

[Laughs] The funny thing about that is that us — me and Lord Jama — we're naming off who we were before you ever heard of Ice-T. I was saying those rhymes before I even knew about rap, we were just the Eliminators Pimpin' Association, trying to talk some s—, and he was Kid Magic.

Do you have a lot of old rhymes that you're able to laugh at?

The rhymes I used to say, I would say them for the gang members, and it was like a form of what they called toasting back in the day. You say a rhyme and they would be entertained, and there was no music. And when I first heard the music, I was like, "I can do that! I'm already doing that!"

PAT HEALY
pat.healy@metro.us

Q&A

Would you have ever shared these memories with other MCs when you were coming up? Or would that be a sign of the weakness you mentioned?

You know, we always chop it up like that together. ... You saw the Eminem I know, not the Eminem on the records. ... We have a lot of respect in hip-hop. The rappers know who's who. It ain't just because there's a camera there; I got to capture my friends as I know they are, and I know they're all cool. I know the way Rakim is and I know how Kanye will be. If you say, "Go rhyme," he'll go crazy.

And he really did!

I know! He was like, "I'm in Ice's movie, and they wanna see me spit" and to me ... when you watch Kanye, it's like you're watching Jimi Hendrix in a solo. All of a sudden he's just in one of his runs and you can't stop. We kept the camera running and you know, if you mess up a word, it doesn't matter, because where the hell are you pulling these words from anyway? [Laughs]

Nothin' but a good time

While breakout star Diego Boneta wasn't even born yet in 1987, when "Rock of Ages" takes place, his colleagues certainly have some memories of what the world was like 25 years ago.

Actress Malin Akerman:
My mom was an aerobics instructor, and she liked to go out dancing, so I would always remember her in her outfits and I was always pining after her like, "I wish I could be her, I wish I could wear those outfits." She'd wear her tight blue spandex pants and her big hair and red nails. I always wanted to perm my hair back then, but my mom wouldn't let me. So I finally got to live that dream out in this movie. But back then, I don't know about you but I was wearing the horrible fluorescent T-shirts [and] acid-wash jeans. It was really, really ugly. I like the '80s, though. I think it's pretty sexy, with girls in high jeans and the rock T-shirts or leather — anything leather is always great.

Screenwriter Justin Theroux:
Oh, man. Endless frustration with girls. In '87 I was 15, I guess. I remember hair spray and lots of Dippity-do. My first record was "Dirty Deeds Done Dirt Cheap" by AC/DC. When I was in my 20s, there was that weird '70s nostalgia when bell-bottoms came back in; there's kind of a similar thing with the '80s now. To me, the '80s were just kind of fun memories because nothing's really gone wrong yet in your life, so all the music is very nostalgic for me, too.

▶ Justin Theroux rocks on.

Director Adam Shankman:

In 1987, I was actually in New York. I had just dropped out of school. I was a waiter working at El Rio Grande on Third Avenue. I was starting to do musical theater. I was going to a lot of clubs — I was going to Danceteria, the Palladium, Area at the end of the Area years. I was a little more suspenders-and-skinny-tie guy. It was horrifying. I freely admit to the ugliness of it.

Screenwriter and co-star of the new indie film opening Friday chats with us about the differences between what men and women want

'Lola Versus' modern dating

Actress, screenwriter and producer Zoe Lister-Jones has been in a committed relationship with her writing partner Daryl Wein for several years, but that doesn't mean she's been oblivious to how the modern dating environment has changed. Her sharp observations are sprinkled throughout the couple's latest film, "Lola Versus," in which a woman approaching 30 (Greta Gerwig) is suddenly dumped by her fiance and forced to start over in the dating dungeon that is New York City.

"Guys are always looking for something better," Lister-Jones says. "I think a lot of men find validation through how beautiful the woman they can sleep with is, and women find validation more in being loved. Women have a less superficial set of standards that apply in the dating world. If a guy is really funny or interesting or smart, all of those things play a much heavier hand in terms of what I think women find attractive."

Lister-Jones can drop the truth bombs that easily. She and Wein were moved to write the script for the very Woody Allen-esque romantic comedy after hearing so many war stories from their friends. Take note: One character in the film is a prison architect who enjoys making love to Ani DiFranco's "Both Hands." For people who have dated here, that actually sounds quite believable.

▶ Zoe Lister-Jones gives directions on set with her boyfriend and director of "Lola Versus" Daryl Wein in the background.

"I think a lot of men find validation through how beautiful the woman they can sleep with is, and women find validation more in being loved."
ZOE LISTER-JONES

"We really strive for authenticity in our films and to represent our generation in a way that feels relatable," Lister-Jones explains. "Daryl and I write about modern relationships, and for heterosexual modern relationships it's helpful to have both genders' perspective."

While the men and women that populate "Lola Versus" are all flawed and refreshingly three-dimensional, Lister-Jones, through the script, does take issue with one particular quirk she noticed in modern dating.

"We know that there is somewhat of an epidemic of really cool, funny, interesting, beautiful single women who are not getting what they deserve," she says. "When I was in an open relationship with Daryl, I got to experience the single life — and it just was like, bleak and brutal. I was just like, 'Get me out of here, I want nothing to do with this.'"

Review

'That's My Boy'

Director: Sean Anders
Cast: Adam Sandler, Andy Samberg
Rating: R
Grade: ❶❷❸❹❺
What can you say about a movie that tries to resurrect Vanilla Ice's career and almost succeeds? You may call it performance art, but that would only be accurate if someone actually performed in this pastiche. It's hard to tell what was more irritating: Sandler's sketch acting style, Andy Samberg's unfunny, wussy role, the pedophilia and incest motifs or the desperate, forced "edginess" of the movie. But like a train wreck, you can't look away.

TRACY BENNETT

▶ So dopey together

Would this movie be more palatable if Sandler dropped the grating accent? What if they recast the role with Steve Carell in the lead? It would still smell. The whole movie is dripping in '80s and '90s nostalgia — probably the decades when Sandler's comedy made most sense.

Presley in 'Storm and Grace' land

Lisa Marie gets her Brit on The daughter of the King on moving to a land where royals still reign

KEVIN REES

▶ Why did Lisa Marie Presley go across the pond? "I love Guinness."

Madonna, Gwyneth, Lisa Marie Presley: All-American girls gone Brit-crazy. For Presley, there's one particular aspect of being an Anglophile that she likes: the local pub.

"There are lots of pubs near where we live in Sussex, but there's one that's become my local," says Presley. "I love that I can walk in there and see everyone in the village. I never got that social aspect of it until I lived here. I love to go in and say hello to people. And I love Guinness."

The Memphis belle's first new album in seven years, the rootsy Americana set "Storm and Grace," is being hailed as a return to her Southern roots, but after her last tour, five years ago, all Presley wanted was to ditch them.

"I had to leave everyone and everything I knew behind in order to write."
LISA MARIE PRESLEY

"I didn't feel like doing much of anything for a while," she says. "I am a writer at heart. I felt that if I was in a different place and got rid of all the things I knew that I'd start writing again. I had to leave everyone and everything I knew behind in order to write."

Presley co-wrote the album in England with several contributors, including two Brits: Pulp guitarist Richard Hawley, who's also a solo artist with a Southern twang to his music; and Ed Harcourt, a brilliant melodicist and songwriter.

"It was really my husband's idea," says Presley of the hookups. Her husband is guitarist/producer Michael Lockwood, who also lent a hand. "He knows more about musicians and that kind of thing."

Bring T-Bone to the table

"Storm and Grace" is produced by 12-time Grammy Award-winner T Bone Burnett, a master of Americana.

"I am a fan of his work, he's done so many great records," says Presley, who manages enthusiastic praise without gushing. "I sent him some demos, and I was really hoping he'd want to work with me. He got back to me so quickly. I was so happy to work with him."

THE WORD

Metro's Monica Weymouth shares her take on the world of gossip @monicaatmetro monica.weymouth@metro.us

The feed ...

▶ Checking in with some of Hollywood's biggest names to see what they've been up to — in their own words, in 140 characters or fewer.

Today, Rihanna wants to clear something up, Joel McHale is impressed, David Lynch is about to get Twitter trolled and Elizabeth Banks is worried about a colleague.

@Rihanna
Nonsense! I'm not sick! I pushed my trip to London back to go spend time with my family! Sorry kiddos

@joelmchale
During my flight back the 12 yr old girl sitting in front of me watched the original "The Thing" from 1951. I'm in awe of her cool.

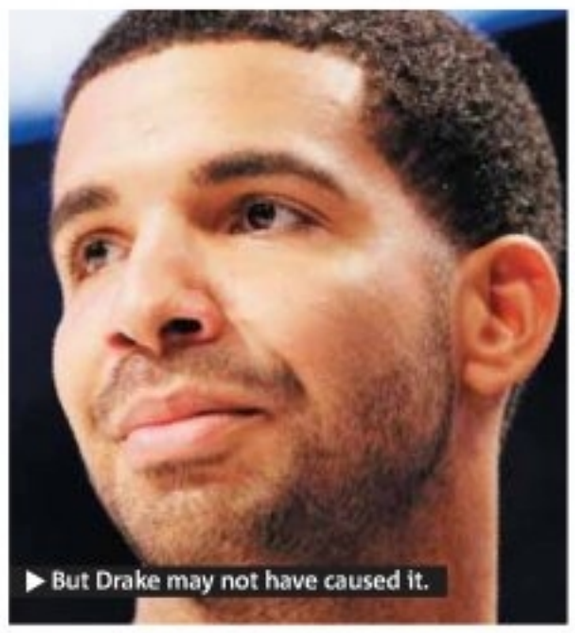
@DAVID_LYNCH
Dear Twitter Friends, in your opinion, is America a good country or a bad country? Is America changing for the better or the worse?

@ElizabethBanks
Is everybody as bummed as me that John Malkovich's best friend seems to be Siri?

Rihanna

Ladies, this is unbecoming

▶ Chris Brown has a scrape on his face.



▶ But Drake may not have caused it.

At first, things seemed pretty nice and tidy with the Chris Brown and Drake brawl that broke out early Thursday morning at Manhattan nightclub W.i.P. Both hip-hop stars have dated Rihanna in the past, both have a habit of gossiping in pop songs, and one has a history of anger management problems: Case closed.

But now, Drake's people are telling TMZ that the rapper wasn't responsible for the gash on Brown's face that popped up on Instagram Thursday morning. "Drake did not participate in any wrongdoing of any kind," his rep tells the site. "He was on his way out of the club when the altercation began."

Another source claims that Philly rapper Meek Mill was the one with the problem, and hit Brown with a bottle after a shouting match. No arrests were made, and all of the boldface names were gone by the time police arrived.

Brown, for one, seems to back up at least the bottle part. His Twitter feed has since been airbrushed by publicists, but at one point after the incident it read, "How u party wit rich n* that hate? Lol... Throwing bottles like girls? #shameonya!."

Well, someone is certainly getting left out of the Cheesecake Factory shopping trip this weekend. As soon as a catty note surfaces on the bathroom wall, we're going to call it: Lamest hip-hop fight ever.

Josh Duhamel knows the way to our heart

After his beloved rescue pup Meatloaf passed away, Josh Duhamel — also known as Mr. Fergie — is working with PetSmart Charities to promote pet adoption.

"[Meatloaf] was so appreciative of us and giving him a home," Duhamel tells UsMagazine.com. The actor now tells everyone to adopt "not because it's the right thing to do, but because they truly make the best pets."

But before they adopt another friend for their other dog, Zoe, the couple is hoping to add a baby to the family.

"We're going to focus on a human first," says the actor. "We're going to focus on raising a human and then maybe we'll get a dog after that."

Your call, Josh. But you know who will never, ever thank you for giving them a home? A 14-year-old human.

Name dropping hall of fame

By now, Hugh Jackman is used to being mobbed by fans, but his 12-year-old son, Max, doesn't always appreciate it. "He doesn't like when people come up to me on the street. He would much prefer if nobody knew who I was," the actor tells Parade.com "Although, I've seen him in social situations when he didn't think I was listening, and he once said to a girl, 'Well, my dad is Wolverine.' So when it came to try to talk to this girl, apparently it came in handy!"

Not bad at all, kid. The only thing we'd possibly rather hear is "My dad is Tyler Durden."

Talking points

Gyllenhaal has time, ladies

Jake Gyllenhaal is nothing if not persistent. Though Minka Kelly reportedly turned him down flat when he asked her out last fall, the pair apparently did eventually go out a few times recently, according to Us Weekly. "Minka wasn't into Jake when he first pursued her," a source says, explaining that the actress "decided to give Jake another chance" after her romance with Wilmer Valderrama fizzled out. But it looks like things between Gyllenhaal and Kelly didn't last, either: "It was never serious, and it's over now," the source says.

Johansson is too sexy for her art

Scarlett Johansson gets a lot of attention for her beauty, but it's not something she's exactly thrilled about. "I don't like being labeled as 'the sexiest woman alive.' As an actress I prefer to maintain the anonymity," Johansson says in an interview with Grazia Italia. And as for being a role model for other women? She'd rather not. "There are so many wonderful women out there," Johansson says.

Cox and Arquette playing nice

In possibly the most amicable split in Hollywood history, Courtney Cox reportedly filed her divorce paper the same day as soon-to-be ex-husband David Arquette, also citing irreconcilable differences, according to TMZ. Like Arquette, Cox is seeking joint custody of their daughter and no spousal support, and she will represent herself in the proceedings. The biggest discovery is that the couple, married for 11 years before separating in 2010, did not have a prenup, so all of their community property will be divided equally. Cox is worth a reported $75 million, while Arquette is said to be worth $18 million.

There are no jokes on the high road

It's been a rough week for Lindsay Lohan, what with crashing her Porsche and allegedly lying to police about whether or not she was behind the wheel. And her dad, Michael Lohan, thinks everyone is ganging up on her unfairly. "Why doesn't the press emphasize that she went through an extremely traumatic accident that could have been fatal, but she still wants to prove herself and went back to work even against medical advice?" Michael tells Hollyscoop. As to how Lindsay is recovering, Michael says she is "still in some pain, but really well otherwise."

Ice-T and A for your weekend

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

As much as we love when photos of Coco surface, there isn't usually a good reason to share them with you — other than the obvious, of course. But now that Ice-T's documentary is hitting theaters this weekend, we bring you the best of his very curvy better half.

1. Eat your heart out, Angelina: Coco was rocking the ultimate slit back in 2006.

2. Let's just say Coco isn't one to hide from the Miami beach paparazzi. She gave them a little show in November.

3. Did you think she was going to go with a demure Vera Wang? Coco let it all hang out when she renewed her vows to Ice-T last year.

4. Ice-T, Seal and Coco dressed way up for Heidi Klum's 2010 Halloween party.

5. There's no shortage of these shots to choose from over the years, but we love that Coco was happy to point out the obvious in April.

Cirque du so-so

Though 'TOTEM' has 'wow' moments, the show itself lags in comparison to its predecessors The activities on the bars almost makes it worth it

NICOLAUS CZARNECKI/METRO

▶ The trapeze work of the Cirque crew is always stellar.

Sure there are leaps, tumbles, aerials and acrobatic feats that make you gasp, wondering how any human being can do that. And if what you're looking for is incredible athleticism, razzle dazzle and a big dance party finish that feels like a big musical theater moment, you'll love "TOTEM."

But if you've ever been blown away by the trampolines, high-flying trapeze work and incredibly synchronistic, nearly mind-blowing finish of a Cirque du Soleil production, you, too, might be a bit disappointed.

There are two separate Hoops Dancer pieces that feel more like filler than substance and a lengthy scene called "Manipulation" that's definitely short on showmanship and decidedly dull. The five unicyclists tossing bowls on each other's heads without using their hands could be shorter and definitely needs work on the precision of its execution. Cirque has set the bar pretty high for itself and needs to live up to its own impeccable standards.

"TOTEM" does boast the funniest Clown Act that Cirque has ever brought to Boston. The nerdy skinny Italian who gets the hot girl, goes waterskiing and beats the muscle studs in a gun show easily gets the biggest, and most well-deserved, laughs of the night.

There's also an incredible display of foot juggling, amazing roller skating and some really fun special effects that bring a fresh face to the production.

But if you've ever seen the big finish of a Cirque production, you might be impressed, but hardly blown away by the Russian Bars. Though "TOTEM" is a story about the evolution of the species, it's also a production in dire need of a big bang.

Hamburger helper

Shticky comedian gets himself into sticky situations But nothing can stop the comic with the bad comb-over from making Whitney Houston jokes

A veteran on the indie rock circuit, Neil Hamburger adds some variety to the docket on your rock club calendar. The Australian-born comedian with the ridiculous comb-over and even more ridiculous jokes, is still performing 20 years after his humble beginnings playing in pizza parlors.

"I started as a young pup — now I'm burnt out, exhausted and playing mainly rock 'n' roll nightclubs," says the man who was born Gregg Turkington.

For Hamburger, though, it's all about the fans.

"We're out here telling jokes, spreading joy and that's what it's all about: for [people] to forget about their problems before they continue living their lives," he says.

While the middle-aged cynic hasn't hit the prime time, he makes it his job to mock stars ... even soon after their deaths.

"I wouldn't talk about the money that I'm getting paid, or confidential information," he says in response to topics that he wouldn't mention in his stand-up shtick. "But, when it comes to Whitney Houston and topics of the day, that's what folks want to hear about."

The journeyman hasn't always had susceptive crowds, as he's had his ups and downs touring the U.S. and abroad. That doesn't get Hamburger down, though.

"I've been doing this show for many years," he says. "If you've got a problem with it, get some help quick."

Kiss the Cook

Hamburger might be best known for his fast jabs at musicians, highlighted by '90s rock band Smash Mouth, who he compares to Nickelback.

"I haven't had a conversation with Smash Mouth and I hope to keep it that way. We did have a situation with Dane Cook, where he approached me in a bar in Montreal and expressed some concern at my jokes at his expense — [but also,] that he was a fan."

Music. A Georges day

▶ Columbus will play Georges Island on Aug. 18.

Got to go back to the island!

The members of the local band Columbus, above, have performed in Back Bay, Cambridge, New York and Chicago. But this summer they bring their funk and soul sounds to an unusual concert venue — a fort on an island. As part of Berklee College of Music's free summer concert series, local groups will set up on Fort Warren on Georges Island, just a ferry ride from the harbor. The island venue will be new to some of the bands. "That's probably the part we are looking forward to the most," says Luke Mulholland of The Luke Mulholland Band, who will perform this Saturday. The dates for the shows are this coming Saturday, June 16, starting at 2 p.m., Saturday, July 21 at 3 p.m., and Saturday, Aug. 18 at 3 p.m. For more info, visit www.berklee.edu/events. DORI RAHBAR

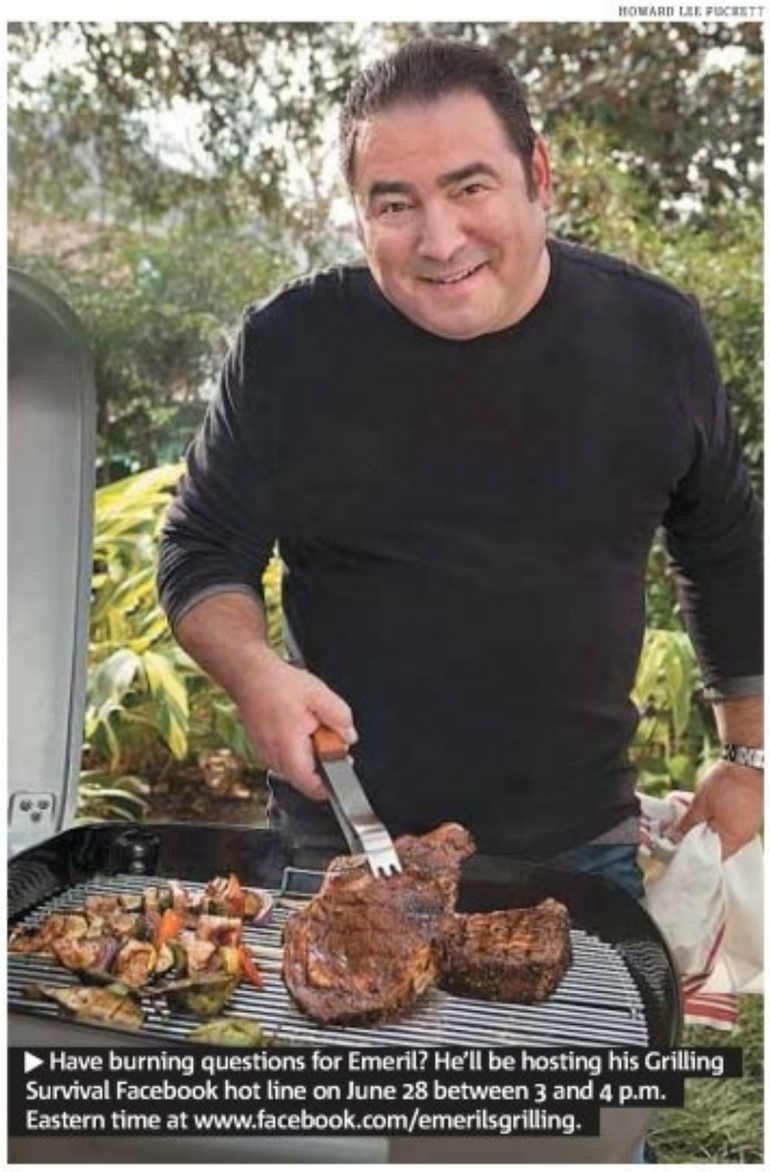
Emeril fixes your grilling hangups

HOWARD LEE PUCKETT



▶ Have burning questions for Emeril? He'll be hosting his Grilling Survival Facebook hot line on June 28 between 3 and 4 p.m. Eastern time at www.facebook.com/emerilsgrilling.

Ah, barbecue season! The days are longer, the fireflies are twinkling and the grill is raring to go. But if the thought of going anywhere near a propane tank sends you shivers colder than an ice cream brain freeze, fear not: Emeril Lagasse, star chef, restaurateur and cookbook author, is here to help. He outlines the mistakes grillers make and how to avoid them.

▶ Not having enough fat on your meat: "You have to have a good percentage of fat," Lagasse says. "You've gotta have at least 10 to 15 percent fat or it's not gonna be great."

▶ Not letting your meat settle: "We season ground meat and we overwork it. We never let the air come out of it and let it rest. Immediately after we overwork it we just put them right on the grill and we wonder, what happened to this burger? If you season it the night before and then take the meat out, let it get to room temperature, then shape it into burgers, then put them on the grill, it makes a huge difference."

▶ Constantly flipping a burger: "People are constantly flipping the burger over and pressing on the burger," he says. "Leave the burger alone. Let it cook one side and then turn it over. Don't press the juices out of it."

▶ Layering your burger the wrong way: When Julia Child came on Lagasse's show, she gave him a lesson in burger prep that he now passes on. "If the burger doesn't touch one part of the bun, then the burger's gonna slide," he says. "What a lot of people do is put lettuce, tomato, and then they put the burger, and then they dress the other side of the bun and, then they put the onion on top of that, and they put the bun on it, so the meat really doesn't have any friction. You take a bite and it's almost in your lap. Julia explained to me that one part of the burger has to touch the bun and then you can build it from there."

▶ Grilling fish wrong: "The biggest mistake that people make is that the grill is too hot. It should be more like depending on what type of fish — steak or more of a filet," says the chef, who recommends a fish spatula for handling the delicate protein. And before you even fire up the grill, let your fish settle as you would meat. "Take your protein out of the refrigerator for at least 20 minutes, and let it just come up to room temperature. Then, brushing it with oil on both sides and then seasoning it is the key."

Can we acknowledge sad Olympics past?

It will be exactly 40 years since the massacre of Israeli athletes during the Olympic Games, but still the Olympic Committee refuses to devote one minute of silence to their memories. That is quite disgusting, and with the inclusion of one minute of silence in the 2012 Olympics, that disgraceful disregard of murder during the world's most peaceful international activity will finally end — but only if you raise your voice to make it a reality. Please do. DAVID KRONFELD, VIA E-MAIL

They want to steal all that we've got

RE: "TITLING ENTITLEMENT": I see Sam Khoury is back in the letters, and he again lies about the plans of the Republicans. They always talk of Social Security as an entitlement program and they want to cut it now, even though it can pay full benefits for 25-plus years. It is most certainly part of the safety net, as it pays survivor and disability benefits. And forget waste — they want to stop us from drawing down the $3 trillion dollars we have loaned the government from our FICA payments, all of which went to pay for tax cuts to the rich and for wars against brown people. They've got our money, and they intend to keep it. KEVIN DOWD, VIA E-MAIL

Capitalism not to blame — or is it?

It is unfortunate, and probably deliberate, that jobs are being sent overseas by U.S. corporations. But it is useless to blame capitalism. Our economic system has given the most to our citizens as compared to any other system, especially socialism. Perhaps leftists would be happier in communist North Korea or maybe in a place like Jonestown where that socialist monster Jim Jones snuffed out 900 lives with his Marxism. Is this what leftists want? If so, maybe I can help them with the plane fare. FRANK ST. GEORGE, VIA E-MAIL

Kelly Donnoe once again speaks of what I can only assume is another universe since it doesn't come close to matching the real facts. First off: Over the past few decades we have seen massive increases in American employee productivity, yet no increase in wages. Second: All the profit made from that increased productivity has gone right to CEOs and other top business executives in order to "retain the talent" that is solely responsible for massive losses, companies crumbling, billions in fraud and generally the destruction of the American economy and dream. Third: When 98 percent of a country lives in poverty the country lacks something needed for a strong economy — something called disposable income, which allows people to buy the products companies make, which is how a company makes profit. So Kelly Donnoe I would suggest you not only take an economics class, but you need to get up to speed on the facts of this universe, since we have seen for decades and especially recently that unions have been in decline — and with them, the size of the American middle class into poverty. Furthermore, during this decline the amount of money unions could pour into politics was dwarfed by business even before the Citizens United case. DOUGLAS P BROWN II, VIA E-MAIL

Horoscope

♊ Gemini May 21-June 20. Your instincts for spotting conditions that could produce gains for you are sharper than usual. You might not make a killing, but the more you find, the more it'll add up.

♋ Cancer June 21-July 22. Having marvelous leadership qualities allows you to quickly instill optimism and enthusiasm in others. You shouldn't have any trouble getting all working for a common cause.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug. 22. Although you may be a topic of discussion among your friends, there's no reason to be disturbed. If you could hear what they're saying, you'd be flattered.

♍ Virgo Aug. 23-Sept. 22. One secret to success is to give others what you desire, which would be a good course for you today. You've heard it before: If you want friends, be friendly. If you need help, aid others.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23. Something unusual might transpire that will be of enormous importance to you but not necessarily to anybody else — but don't let that stop you. You'll recognize it for its worth.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22. Bonds can be strengthened if you allow your companions the same freedom of expression that you expect from them. This simple rule has multiple benefits.

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21. Some of the time you spend with friends should be devoted to them instead of to you and your interests. If you make your friends feel important, they'll repay you in kind.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 19. In order to do something successfully, you must first convince yourself that you're capable of it. Your limitations will only be as strong as you allow them to be.

♒ Aquarius Jan. 20-Feb. 19. A pending project can easily be concluded to your satisfaction if and when you develop a plan to do so. For positive results, utilize all of your bright ideas.

♓ Pisces Feb. 20-March 20. If you want to go out on the town with friends tonight, don't wait until the last minute. Contact your pals as early as possible to make the arrangements, before they have a chance to make other plans.

♈ Aries March 21-April 19. Don't grab the first item you see when shopping without first comparing prices and quality. Those small differences between one item and another could quickly add up.

♉ Taurus April 20-May 20. You're endowed with a winning combination of sound ideas and plenty of energy, but things won't just happen to you by chance. Have a game plan in hand. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Endless cliches set for Red Sox-Cubs

Overplayed story lines will surely dominate this weekend of baseball at Wrigley Field ◐ Theo's Cubs are arguably the worst team in the majors

Ready for an avalanche of tired narratives?

Even though these teams are both in last place in their respective divisions heading into this weekend interleague series, they will still receive a lion's share of national attention.

Predictably, Saturday night's game is on FOX (7:15 p.m.) and Sunday night's game is on ESPN (8 p.m.). With that in mind, it would be almost too easy to construct a drinking game based on words, events and people that you'll hear repeated over and over again.

Theo Epstein (former Red Sox GM, now Cubs president), Bill Buckner, Steve Bartman, Babe Ruth, a billy goat and Curse of the Bambino are the prop bet favorites for being mentioned the most by Tim McCarver, Joe Buck, Ken Rosenthal, Terry Francona, Dan Shulman and Orel Hershiser this weekend. You are also sure to hear that Wrigley Field was built in 1916 (second oldest park in MLB behind Fenway) and the Cubs haven't won a World Series in only 103 years.

DAVID BANKS/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Theo talk will dominate the weekend.

More annoying fan base, who ya got?

You might think that we have the market cornered on pink hats and insufferable fans but Chicago can surely give Sox fans a good run for their Fenway bricks. If Fenway has become an amusement park in recent years then Wrigley most closely resembles a college party. I'm convinced that many of the fans that shuffle into Wrigley summer after summer do it mostly for the social aspect: You drink some cheap, watered-down beer in the bleachers, make some new friends and try not to get heat stroke. If that's not bad enough, the Cubs feature the one song that can rival the nauseating "Sweet Caroline" at Fenway. During the seventh-inning stretch, the Cubs have a "celebrity" sing perhaps the most played out baseball related song in the universe: "Take Me Out To the Ballgame."

21 Number of wins the Cubs had as of Thursday. Their 21-41 record is an MLB worst. The Red Sox are 31-32 on the season.

Oh, right: The games

This series will be fun because it's the first time since 2005 that the Red Sox have played at Wrigley. Odds are that we'll never see that dream Red Sox-Cubs World Series in our lifetime, so this will have to do.

Because the Cubs are the worst team in MLB (heading into Thursday's action), the Red Sox need to win at least two of three. Friday's starting pitcher for Chicago, Ryan Dempster (2-3, 2.31 ERA, 1.03 WHIP), is having a great season but his team can't win games behind him.

Wide receiver Jeff Samardzija (5-4, 3.96 ERA, 1.35 WHIP), who gets the ball on Saturday for the Cubs and is matched up against Jon Lester, is proving that choosing pro baseball over pro football was certainly a wise decision.

The Cold, Hard football facts

A look at the NFL offseason through the eyes of the stat experts at ColdHard-Football-Facts.com:

Detroit Lions defensive line: Big hat, no cattle
The Detroit Lions have a big-name defensive line led by talented but mercurial DT Ndamukong Suh. Despite the big-time rep, the 2011 Lions fielded one of the worst run defenses in the history of the NFL. Only nine teams in the Super Bowl era surrendered 5.0+ yards per attempt on the ground, and the Lions were one of them.

Worst run defenses of the Super Bowl era
2006 Colts – 5.33 YPA
2003 Chiefs – 5.17 YPA
1976 Chiefs – 5.15 YPA
2008 Lions – 5.14 YPA
1973 Patriots – 5.09 YPA
1969 Bengals – 5.07 YPA
2011 Raiders – 5.07 YPA
2011 Buccaneers – 5.01 YPA
2011 Lions – 5.00 YPA

Patriots coach to close camp early

Belichick calls off last practice of three-day camp
Pats coach never ceases to stun players, fans

JEFF GROSS/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Bill Belichick called off the Pats last session Thursday.

Patriots head coach Bill Belichick ended minicamp one practice early Thursday, much to the surprise of his players.

"It was a shocker," Patriots wide receiver Deion Branch said. "Coach keeps us on our toes."

Belichick touched on several hot topics with the media, including swiping tight end Jake Ballard from the Giants and the proposed practice sessions with the New Orleans Saints.

"(Ballard) was here (Wednesday) afternoon. I talked to him, and we'll move along with his rehab," Belichick said.

As for a potential joint practice with the tainted Saints:

"It's a possibility," Belichick said. "Right now we're really just trying to focus on getting through this minicamp here."

The Patriots head coach said Thursday that he had been in touch with Saints interim head coach Joe Vitt about practices during training camp.

NFL training camp opens in late July.

The Forsyth Institute
A Leading Research Organization Dedicated to Oral and Biomedical Sciences

Gum Disease Study

The Forsyth Institute is seeking volunteers to take part in a clinical research study. The purpose of this study is to find out which germs make gum disease worse.

The study requires you to come visit our clinic for up to 14 visits.

To qualify, you must:
- Be at least 25 years old
- Have at least 20 natural teeth
- Have not used tobacco products for at least a year

People who participate in the study will be paid for participating in the study. At the end of the study participants will receive a full dental cleaning.
